Welcome Back! September 1990

The school's new wing awaits the arrival of the first students of the 1990-91 school year.

Students slowly begin to trickle in as the "early birds" arrive.

Jay Wiley, Tina Dickens, Tracy Scott, and Michelle Parrish become reacquainted after the summer break.

As the day progresses, the halls become a mass of excited students.

On the first day of school, many students needed help finding their way around. Here, Juan Adams seeks assistance from Mrs. Russell.

Spring 1990

Spring of 1990 was a busy time — crowding many events into the short time left before graduation. Although prom and graduation were the main events, students also took part in several other activities. At the career fair, students examined exhibits and asked questions of representatives from a variety of career areas, hoping to gain more insight into their own futures. Special education students displayed their athletic talents during the Special Olympics festivities while fellow students and teachers cheered them on. Seniors sponsored a Bloodmobile drive where students braved the needle to benefit others. Mr. Stanley P. Jones, an aerospace education specialist from NASA-Langley, presented an outstanding assembly concerning the space program and let students know that small-town folks can achieve big goals. Finally, the Cobblestone theatrical troupe entertained the students with their dramatic antics while informing them of the different types of drama in "I Can't Pay the Rent!"

Chris Washington and Tony Pair, shown here with Mrs. Sabo, won an award for the rap they wrote and performed for the 1990 Prom Promise campaign.

Diane Rodgester, Sara English, Ginny O'Hara, Michael Caines, and Frank Lamm had loads of fun on the dance floor.

Many well-dressed sophomores helped serve refreshments and cleaned up afterwards.

Clifton Batts, Tasha Powell, Zachary Hicks, Danetta Powell and Terry Owens took time out from dancing.

If Only For One Night

As the evening of May 12, 1990, rolled around, the Bakery Lounge began to fill with many excited and elegantly dressed couples. "If Only for One Night" was the theme of the prom, and everyone had a great time.

The crowded dance floor was covered by juniors, seniors, and their dates dancing to the music of the band "Street Life."

Couples had their pictures taken and many memories were made. The 1990 prom was sure to be remembered for years to come.

The dance floor was packed with people dancing to the music of the band.

Larry Wesson and his date showed off their moves on the dance floor.

For thirteen years we have waited for this day. Anxiety and fear have not been strangers to us. As we look around, we begin to realize that after this day, we may never see each other again — faces we've matured with, grown with, laughed and cried with. Today we are one.

Graduation, the end, is just the beginning — the end of the only life we have ever known, the beginning of a life we have only heard and dreamed of, the "real world." Some of us know exactly where we are going and how to get there; others are just as confused as they were thirteen years ago. Despite our different paths ahead, however, at this moment we are united — with pride in what we've accomplished and anticipation for whatever lies ahead.

Junior marshalls for 1990 were Cedric Allen, LaWanda Brown, Michael Caines, Tasha Crawley, Omar Faison, Karen Ferguson, Shannon Ferguson, Stephanie Grant, Ginny O'Hara, Muzette Rogerson, Tammy Seward, Dickie Thompson, and Tarsha Wiggins.

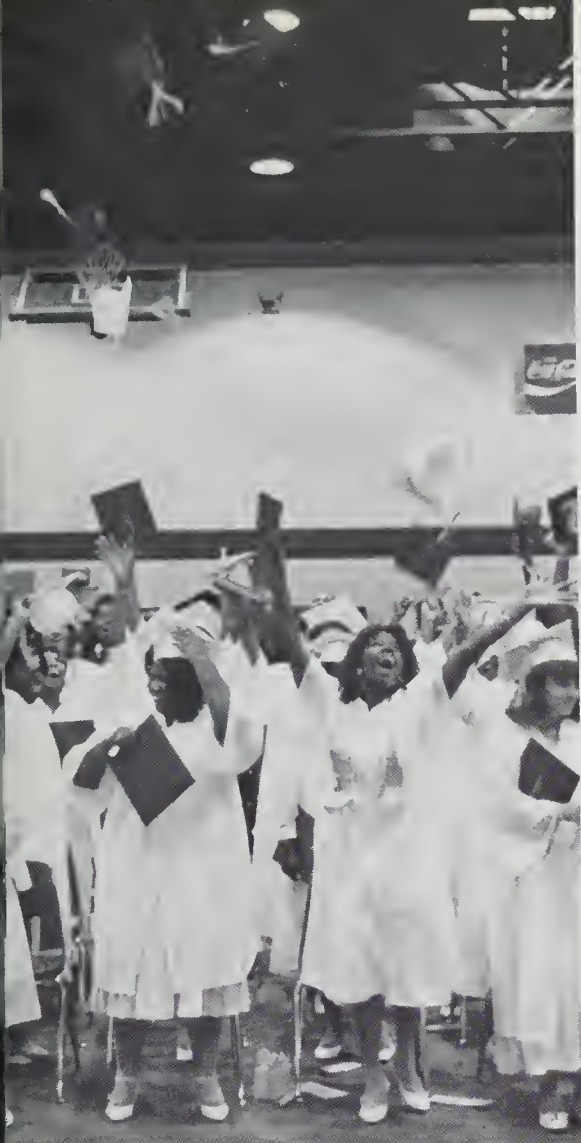

Right: The graduating seniors exploded from the excitement of the long-awaited day.

Craig Young, who received many scholarship awards throughout the day, receives his diploma from Mr. Martin.

THE YEAR IN SPORTS

Athletics met with a relatively "dry" season in 1990 and early '91. Graduation devastated many teams, leaving them with young players who lacked varsity experience. Most coaches deemed 1990 a "building year." Despite such dismal prospects, however, several teams managed to persevere and finish their seasons with winning records. The softball, JV baseball, JV football, and JV basketball teams all had successful seasons. The year was also notable for individual achievements with many players being named to All-District, All-Regional and even All-State teams. Senior Pless Jones received special recognition when he was selected to play in the State All-Star Game.

The 1990 season for the GCHS baseball team was a time for building. The young team had talent but lacked experienced players, with four freshmen and two sophomores in the starting line-up. Despite a 6-9 record, the team did not finish the season unrewarded. Seniors Tommy Woodruff and Fred White were named to the All-District Second Team while Anthony Walton made the Region I Team.

JV Baseball 1990

The 1990 season was a revival of the JV baseball team after a lapse of several years. Maintaining a 4-6 overall record for the season, the team showed improvement throughout the season and developed fundamental skills so that members should be an asset to the 1991 varsity baseball team.

The 1990 Eaglettes worked their way through a .500 season after a perfect start against non-district competition. The Eaglettes then put up a good fight with district opponents, ending the season in a tie for third place. Although the Eaglettes lost only two seniors, starter Clarke Chaplin and Nana Karakama, they face an even greater loss — Coach Doris Harrison will not return for the 1991 season in order to devote more time to the demands of her administrative position.

Although the season was disappointing, the Eagle soccer team, in its first season, displayed great defensive skill and offensive potential. They became quite familiar with "the agony of defeat," but kept their spirits high and displayed great sportsmanship. A regular season record of 2-10-1 was better than many had expected from the team, which played some AAA teams, and the 3-0 score in the regionals against Smithfield, although it was a loss, boggled the minds of many members of the team and the community. Losing only three seniors — Pooh Setji, Clifton Batts, and Andy Vaughan — the GCHS Eagles soccer squad plans to be ready in '91.

Cross Country

The 1990 Cross Country season was one to remember. After a difficult period of recruiting, Coach Maurice Smith "found the right set," a group of runners who were always willing to push themselves. There were times when the team came up short, but they just kept trying harder. According to Coach Smith, "Next year we can expect a championship to be brought home to Greenville County High School."

A Learning Year

The 1991 football season for the varsity Eagles was a year of transition from the wishbone offense to the run-and-shoot and a training year for a group of young players. The second transition reflected an experience problem with few players having played varsity-level football. Bright spots for the season came with the winning of the "Old Oaken Bucket" along with the selection of all-district players, two all-region players (Pless Jones, first team and Joe Rowe, second team) and Pless Jones also making first team all-state.

Young Team Looks To Future

The graduation of nine seniors and the return of only three players from the '89-90 team forced this year's Eagles to join a youth movement, replacing the graduating seniors with nine first-year players — two freshmen, five sophomores, and one junior. If experience is truly the best teacher, then this young team will be future masters of the game.

Eaglette Basketball

The GCHS Eaglette basketball team, led by captains Sheryl Taylor and Sara English, had to cope with the dual hardships of youth and inexperience this year as only two seniors and three juniors returned for the season. Despite these difficulties, the Eaglettes finished in fifth place in the district, netting a 3-7 district record and a 6-13 record overall. The team looks forward to next year's competition since they will have eleven players returning with game-time experience; however, they will miss the guidance of Coach Leonard Deloatch, who will devote his energies to his duties as Athletic Director next year.

Cheerleaders

GCHS cheerleaders began a busy year with a four-day cheerleading camp at Old Dominion University. After rigorous summer and after-school practice sessions, they continued their busy schedule, supporting Eagle teams at JV and varsity football games, girls' basketball games, and JV and varsity basketball games. In addition, they performed community service by assisting the Meherrin River Arts Council with concerts and holding three cheerleading clinics for interested young people in the community. Their latest project is raising money for a new Eagle mascot.

Student Council Association

SCA kept busy this year providing numerous services and activities for the students and school. The year began with the election of homeroom representatives who immediately went to work on various projects. During football season, SCA members manned the concession stand during JV games.

Homecoming was the busiest time of the year for SCA. In addition to organizing the presentation of the queen and her court, SCA also sponsored a homecoming carnival, a parade through the streets of Emporia, and a post-game dance to complete the festivities.

Throughout the year SCA was on hand whenever they were needed. They served as liaisons to the student body, conveying information from the office to the homerooms and allowing for student input. Whenever a reception was needed for visiting dignitaries or other special events, SCA was there to handle it. Many students in emergency need of everyday school supplies or something special like poster board or a report cover were thankful for the SCA-run school store.

In May, SCA provided the student body with one last fling — a spring carnival with basketball, ping pong, and a student-faculty softball game followed by a spring dance at the end of the week.

With the election of new officers at the end of the year, SCA is already preparing for 1991-92.

Brain Power: Academic Quiz Team And Beta Club

The Southside District sponsors Academic Challenge for our students. It brings excitement to the learning process by promoting academic competition as a motivator. The 1990-91 Academic Quiz Team at GCHS held its weekly practices in the Library/Media Center to prepare for their district competition against six other schools. After many grueling hours spent with the "Knowledge Master" computer 200-question challenge, the team went through countless hours of question and answer sessions, viewed TV quiz programs, scanned quiz books and almanacs, and did anything else they could to increase their knowledge.

This year our BETA Club chapter was busy as usual. During football season, members manned the concession stand at all home games. As a tradition, the club donated Thanksgiving baskets to the needy families of Emporia. During the Christmas season, members helped put the school into the holiday spirit by setting up the Christmas tree. Toys were given to needy families. Members also participated in the annual Santa's Workshop held at all of Greenville's elementary schools. Throughout the year, members also served as tour guides at Open House and on other occasions like the Greenville County Education Foundation Introduction Breakfast. The largest fundraiser for the year was the sale of Tom Wat merchandise which provided the necessary funds to attend the Virginia Beta Club Convention in Roanoke, where GCHS's own Omar Faison, president of the Virginia Beta Club, conducted the meetings and Charles Barrett was a candidate for state office. In May Beta members enjoyed their annual outing to King's Dominion. At graduation, senior members were recognized and junior members served as marshalls.

The 14th Annual Model United Nations sponsored by Old Dominion University and the Model United Nations Society was held at the Omni in Norfolk February 6-9. Over 1200 students representing over 73 schools from all over the East Coast participated. GCHS delegates included Omar Faison, Johnalynn Holland, Ashley Barnes, Nicole Harrison, Jami Clements and Kim Lee. Mrs. Anna Price was the sponsor. The students served on committees that addressed several issues ranging from disposal of toxic wastes to illicit drug trafficking. This annual symposium gives high school students an opportunity to learn how the world's international organizations work and contribute to the security of all nations.

FFA And FHA Look To The Future

This year FHA met as separate "classroom clubs with each class having an officer. Meetings were held during each class period. Group activities included selling posters, dining at Pizza Hut, enjoying a Christmas luncheon, and observing Vocational Education Week in February. The club also went to King's Dominion in May.

FBLA — Their Business Is Business

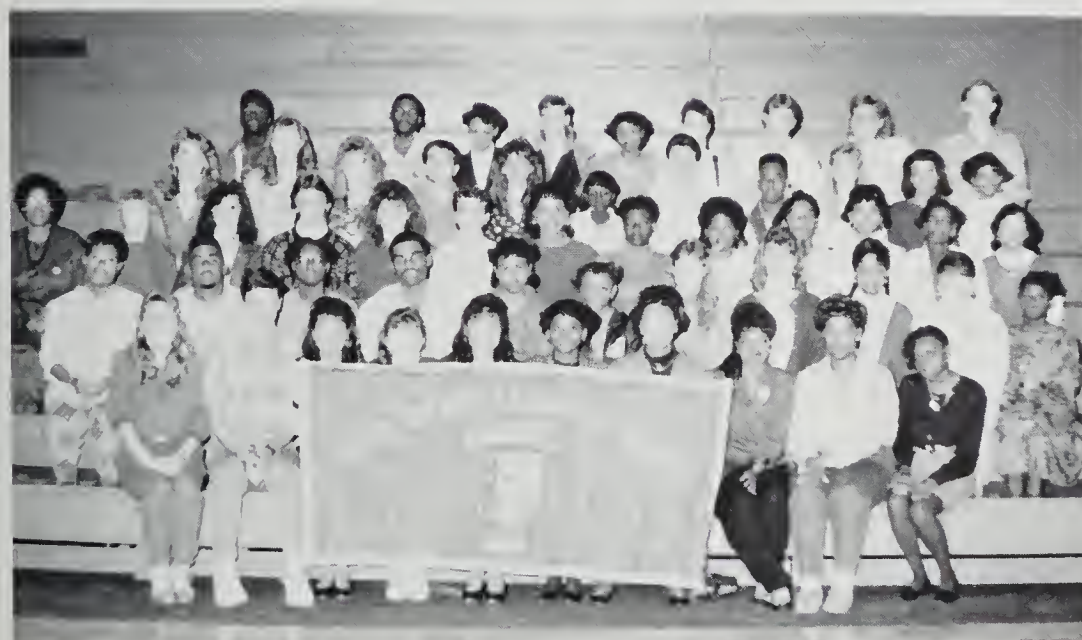

During September and October, FBLA conducted a rewarding membership drive, recruiting a total of 100 members. Also in October, officers and sponsors attended Officers Fall Workshop at Virginia State University. In November FBLA members donated nonperishable goods to the needy through Social Services. In December, they gave spelling tests to students in the business department, rewarding winners with certificates. February saw members prepare a display for Vocational Education Week which was viewed at the regular School Board meeting. School secretaries were recognized in April, when FBLA members also attended state competition. In May, members relaxed for a day at King's Dominion, then elected officers for 1991-92.

In March, FBLA competitors attended the regional FBLA conference at Colonial Heights High School. The following students took awards in their respective areas: Stephanie Grant, 2nd, Accounting; Judith Raybould, 2nd, Intro to Business; Chelle Tucker, 3rd, Information Processing; James Davis, 3rd, Business Mathematics. Stephanie Grant and Judith Raybould went on to compete in the State FBLA Leadership Conference in Reston on April 26-28.

Chorus and Band members at GCHS all learned the answer to the question "What is the one universal language?" as part of their daily activities this year.

Chorus members, under the direction of Rev. George Pugh, studied composers and their points of origin as they prepared for their performances, discovering the many ways that music impacts on the lives of people everywhere. They demonstrated the results of their hard work at the GCHS Open House on November 14 and in their December 9 Christmas Concert. Two important events slated for the spring included an Ensemble and Solo Contest at Virginia State University and the Spring Choral Concert. The year concluded on one sad note, however. In a year notable for retirements, Rev. Pugh relinquished his baton. Although he will be missed, we wish him well with his retirement.

Band students also enjoyed an active year in 1990-91. In October and November, the band observed Band Festivals in Bluestone and Roanoke Rapids. December events included the Holiday Concert and auditions for All-District Band. Edwin Robinson frequently performed the national anthem at football and basketball games. Two students received special honors in 1991. Edwin Robinson was selected for the USC Band Clinic (Columbia, SC), and Jay Davis was tapped for the Spirit of America Band, which will tour Europe during the summer of '91. Spring performances included a Solo and Ensemble Festival, a concert at the local nursing home, a May concert tour of county schools, the Concert Band Festival in Williamsburg, the annual Spring Concert, and GCHS graduation ceremonies.

Hosa Involved in Service In '91

Busy HOSA students participated in numerous service activities in '91. Several volunteered their talents to the GMH Nursing Home after school. Other activities included assisting with CPR demonstrations, scoliosis screenings, the GCHS blood drive and Child Find. Three HOSA members also attended a three-day state convention in Northern Virginia during March, taking part in seminars, skills demonstrations and competitions.

STUDENT LIFE 1990-91

In the 1990-91 school year, there were many changes at GCHS. To begin, the Freshmen moved up to the high school. Also, there were new Business and Science Department facilities as well as a new Media Center.

The Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen enjoyed taking advantage of the new facilities this year. They also had fun just being a part of the high school "family" and being with their friends.

In their spare time, students engage in a friendly game of volleyball.

Making A Difference

All of the people at Greenville County High School do their part to make a difference in their own lives, their school and their community. For example, teachers and students helped to organize picture-taking so that we could have lots of shots for this yearbook. Also, many GCHS students received recognition and awards for their own personal achievements during this school year. They proved to themselves and to us all that learning can be both fun and rewarding.

These young ladies helped Mrs. Nylander coordinate picture taking. Cynthia Whitaker, Andrea Blowe, Sophia Grey, Sara English, Jennifer Kern, and Gloria Byrdsong.

Melanie Epps steps out on her own, demonstrating the difference her efforts plus those of Mrs. Hamlett have made.

Project Discovery is a cooperative program operating under the combined auspices of Greenville County Schools and the Sussex-Surry-Greenville Improvement Association. Its purpose is to help junior high and senior high students prepare for college. Participating students become more informed about college applications, financial aid and other relevant information as they listen to guest speakers. They also have the opportunity to take field trips to various colleges, learning about college life and the specific colleges in particular before having to make any commitments. The participants pictured here are working through the program now to make a difference in their futures.

In 1991, Matt Johnson went to Richmond and served as a page in the General Assembly. Cynthia Whitaker won the Daughters of the American Revolution Citizenship Award.

This year all of the students at GCHS had the opportunity to take part in many interesting activities and assemblies. Among the events that took place was a visit from the president, band and cheerleaders from Virginia State University. Other events included a career fair, a college day and an assembly on safety and buckling up.

GCHS Welcomes New "Head Eagle"

The 1990-91 school year brought many changes to GCHS. After coping with construction for over a year, students returned to a school that was finally "complete." The finishing touches were added right before school opened. The biggest news of the year was that new principal Paul Britt assumed the responsibilities of both the larger campus and a larger student body. The arrival of the ninth grade also resulted in two additional personnel changes in the office. Miss Harrison moved from part-time administrative assistant to full-time assistant principal, and Juanda Deloatch joined the guidance department.

The office staff also sponsored many new activities during the school year as well as continuing some old traditions. A financial aid workshop helped students discover new ways to meet college costs. Students were encouraged to strive academically with "honor roll parties" in which the students were treated to pizza and ice cream in recognition of their achievement. Mrs. Deloatch jumped in with both feet this year. With support from the faculty, she coordinated the second year of Prom Promise and the first all-night after-prom "House Party" — which was a great success.

One of the most significant developments of the year was the organization of The Eagle Club, an educational booster group that serves to link the schools and the community. Dedicated to the youth of the city and county, the club offers both financial and moral support as it works with the school system to maintain programs, rally community support and disseminate information, all for the purpose of making Greenville County Schools the best they can be.

In addition to teaching and sponsoring extracurricular activities, there was a lot going on this year to keep teachers busy. Many teachers served on various committees in an effort to make GCHS better than ever. Many also took part in the PET workshops with Mrs. Underdew. In an attempt to get recertification credits or just to pick up additional knowledge, teachers also attended classes on their own after teaching a full day. As summer approached, most teachers welcomed the opportunity to sit back, catch their breath and anticipate the coming year.

CLASSES — 1991

The GCHS family added a new class in 1990-91 as the ninth-grade class moved up from the junior high (now Wyatt Middle School.) The freshmen soon fell into the same routines shared by the other classes — studying, going on field trips, socializing and taking part in extracurricular activities. All classes started the year with class meetings and elected their officers. Campaigns to collect class dues and conduct fundraisers followed throughout the year. As the year drew to a close, juniors and seniors spent much of their hard-earned money on the prom and the senior trip. While seniors eagerly looked to graduation and the future, the three rising classes prepared to carry on GCHS traditions in 1991-92 and welcome a new freshman class in September.

Seniors — The End Is

Just The Beginning

Class Of '91 — Seniors At Last!

A busy 1990-91 senior year started even before September as seniors reported to GCHS in August for senior portraits. After selecting officers, a class flower, and class song in September and October, the real work began in November as students took orders for the Christmas fruit sale. Also in November, the senior class honored ten Students of the Week and one Teacher of the Week during American Education Week. In December, all the fruit arrived and students had to hustle to get orders delivered and money collected. Things slowed down until April, when seniors recruited 72 blood donors and 74 new voters during the Blood Drive and Voter Registration Drive. Selected seniors also participated in a local government "shadowing" program in which they observed local government officials going through their daily activities. In May students spent a four-day holiday in Pennsylvania, visiting Hershey Park, the Amish country, Gettysburg, and historic Philadelphia. The senior trip ended closer to home with a day at King's Dominion. The final senior project before graduation was a Senior Day production in which seniors showed off their talents and recognized their superlatives.

Class Of '92

One rung from the top — that's where the juniors stand. But, even though the Class of '92 was not the center of attention for the 1990-91 school year, they still had plenty of opportunities to shine in the spotlight.

While waiting around to enjoy their year at the top, the juniors helped the seniors make their big plans to break out of GCHS into the real world. The eleventh-graders planned and put together a super prom. To help meet expenses for the prom, they also sponsored the Miss GCHS Pageant and the student-faculty basketball game. In addition, several top juniors were chosen Junior Marshalls to assist with the graduation ceremony.

It won't be long until the Class of '92 will be the pride and joy of GCHS, but until then they still did a great job during the 1990-91 year.

Class Of '93

Along with the freshmen class, the sophomores made the move to the high school and had to adjust to finding their way around an expanded campus. Bewildered at first by biology, Julius Caesar, and new class responsibilities, the Class of '93 quickly adapted to the pace. Class officers, including President Amanda Lee, have been particularly helpful by assisting Mrs. Rhoads with all aspects of fundraising. The 1991 sophomore fundraiser got off to an excellent start, exceeding all expectations. As the year drew to a close, sophomore anticipation geared up as they prepared for host and hostess duties at the prom.

Class Of '94

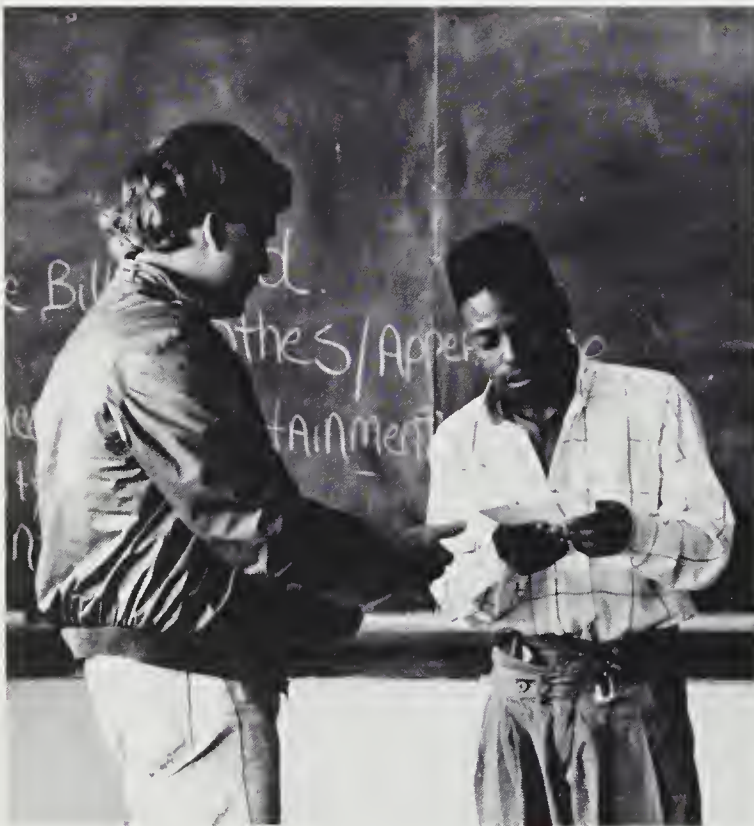

Usually on the night before the first day of high school, the sophomores are the students who have a hard time getting to sleep. This year, they were not alone. Sharing the burdens of the tenth-graders, the freshmen stepped in and faced the frightening fact that they were to be the youngest and most inexperienced students at GCHS during the 1990-91 school year.

Although the first few days were a little rough, once the freshmen made their way up and down the halls of GCHS a few times, they became important and well-accepted members of the high school family.

Like all classes this year the freshmen had to pay their dues and participate in fundraisers, but there were a few activities that were "For Freshmen Only." For example, Contel representatives came to freshmen classes and put on a "Choices" presentation which showed ninth-graders how the choices they make now will affect their lives later. Freshmen concluded the year by providing refreshments for the student body during the spring carnival.

Starting out young in life: Freshman Dwayne Jones, who runs his own baseball card and collectors' items business downtown, shows some of his prized possessions.

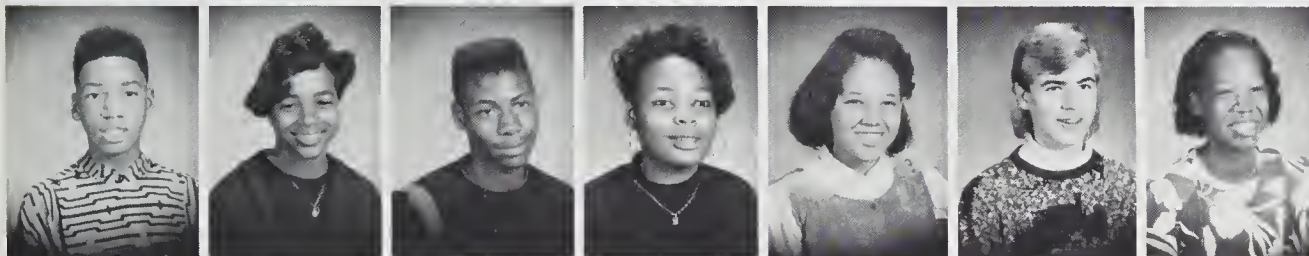

Darius Green discovers that his Contel "Choices" paycheck doesn't last long as he pays rent to Jamie Bryant.

Class Of 93 And 94/Just Beginning

Academics

Students work hard to maintain those passing grades.

Coach Jones and friend add some holiday spirit to biology class.

Mrs. Moore anticipates the arrival of her next world history class.

These students gear up to meet Mrs. Roach's expectations.

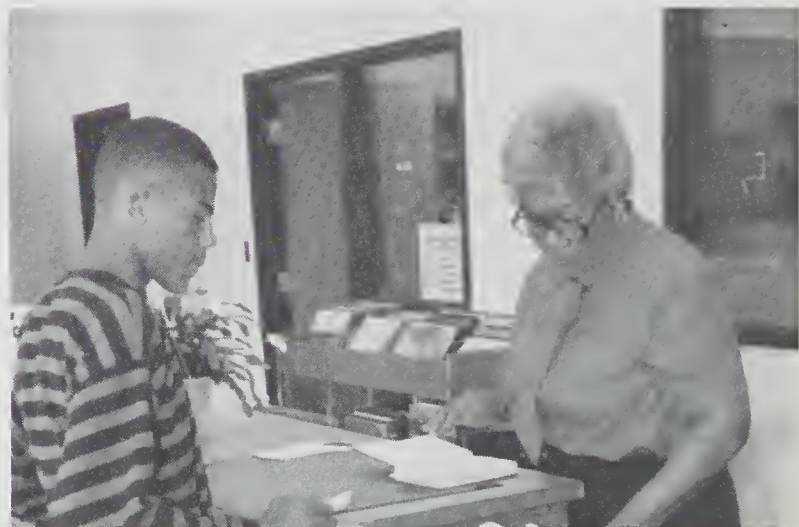

New Media Center Opens

Before school opened in September, Mrs. Russell had her hands full organizing the new Media Center, at times practically buried in books. With great help from Mr. Gary Goode, and cheerleaders Angela Baker, Pam and Pat Setji, Bernita Richardson, Lakeshia Washington, and Ashley Powell, the Media Center became the well-organized resource center that the students know so well. In addition to the increased research, reading and study space, the new Media Center features include twenty study carrels, A-V room, conference room, TV studio, workroom, office, TV storage room, a lounging area for recreational and leisure reading, a fax machine, two copiers and a seating capacity of 120. The students are making maximum use of their new resource center and Mrs. Russell is thrilled. The outlook for future improvements include on-line networking with Longwood College and the addition of an electronic encyclopedia.

The English Department welcomed two new teachers to GCHS this year. Mrs. Judkins and Mrs. Mara transferred from Wyatt to help out with the increased student population. Field trips were also featured this year as students in Mrs. Haverstock's, Mrs. Mara's and Mr. Sasser's classes attended several plays. As the department looks to 1991-92, there will be one significant change: Department head and long-term veteran Mrs. Thelma Holmes announced her retirement at the end of this school year. Her humor, practical advice and leadership will be missed next year.

GCHS Welcomes Miss Quiroz

The Foreign Language Department has been very active this year. In the fall, students traveled to North Carolina where they viewed "The Spanish Nutcracker" and a performance of French song and dance. A trip to Washington, DC, highlighted the spring. One innovation in the department this year was the study of Latin by means of the electronic classroom.

The most notable change in the department this year, however, was the addition of Miss Nadia Quiroz, a native of Mexico, to the department. Having previously taught social studies in a private school in Mexico and English to businessmen and college students through the Independent University of Mexico, Miss Quiroz came to GCHS under the auspices of the Center for International Education, which has placed many foreigners within a two-hour radius of Emporia for the purpose of mixing cultures and ideas within the educational system.

In an interview with Angela Bishop, Miss Quiroz noted the cultural differences between the people of the United States and those of Mexico. Miss Quiroz belonged to a culture where the people are conscientious and willing to share what they feel, think and believe. She feels that the people of the United States pay more attention to everyday things instead of their feelings. Because of her culture, she feels that she needs to "share her feelings with people." In addition to teaching, Miss Quiroz enjoys going to the movies. Her favorite actors include Woody Allan and Dustin Hoffman, and she enjoys Steven Spielberg movies. Her taste in music varies from Phil Collins, Peter Gabriel, Queen, Janis Joplin and Bob Marley to Cuban and Brazilian music.

Art Students Serve Community in 1990-91

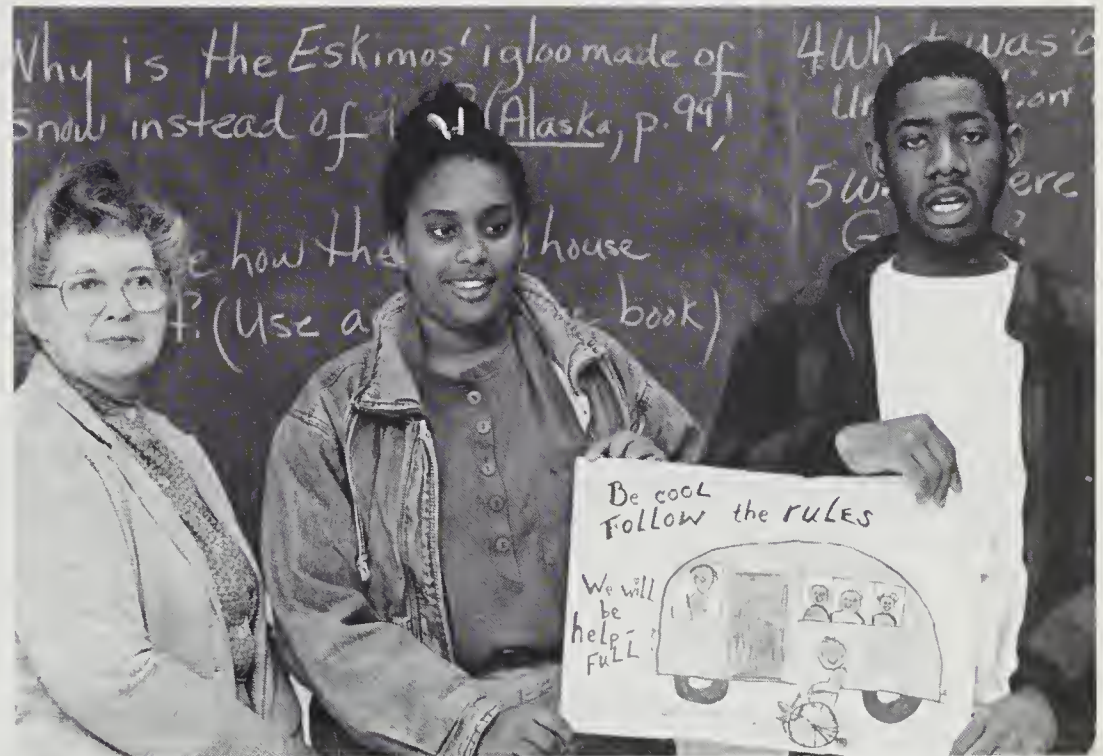

In the fall of 1990, art classes were moved to a new location, the former boys' locker room. After some serious salvaging, sorting, hauling and storing, Mrs. Manson finally got her new facilities ready. In the renovated classroom art students worked in a variety of media and kept the halls bright with autumn landscapes, snowscenes, self-portraits, flower still life acrylic paintings on canvas donated by Virginia Dying and Finishing, and posters for every occasion. Besides the exhibits at school, a special exhibit for Youth Art Month (March) was mounted at the Municipal Building and continued through April. Other community projects included painting life size patriotic figures for the Hospital Auxiliary Dance and the Easter murals on the glass walls at Greenville Memorial Hospital Nursing Home. Portrait sketches were made of residents there for National Nursing Home Week. A final project was the painting of popular rappers for the all-night after prom "House Party" in the gym.

Students enjoyed a presentation and display about the use of graphics in advertising and everyday life courtesy of the Artmobile.

Above: Caricatures gave the students a chance to have fun and give good advice at the same time. Right: James Haislop and Stacey Taylor work on a mural.

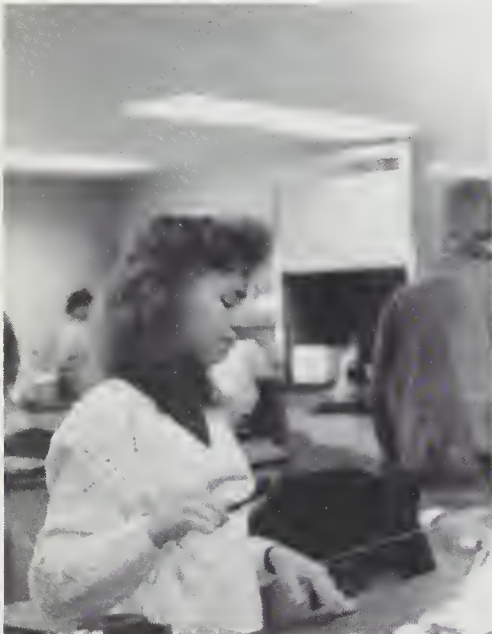

MATH

The GCHS Math Department welcomed two new teachers in '90-91. Mr. Reddick Patrick and Mrs. Vera Black transferred from Wyatt with the ninth-grade class. Also new to GCHS this year was AP Calculus. With the aid of the electronic classroom, interested students were given the opportunity to earn college credit for math. Plans for the spring include participating in the District Math-Science competition at St. Paul's College.

Students in Mrs. Rhoads's and Coach Jones's classes put their knowledge of biology to practical use as they plant and tend their gardens.

Carol Rae sets up an experiment.

Mrs. Roach explains the solutions to an equation

This science fair competitor examines a chick.

Pooh Setji and Andy Vaughan inject a chick with hormones as part of their experiment.

Mrs. Brown's students concentrate on her demonstration.

SCIENCE

These math students must have their homework ready. They don't look too worried as Mr. Critcher makes his check.

The science students and faculty are enjoying the new science wing. There were many things at the beginning of the year which had to be completed, but by the beginning of second semester most everything was in order.

The annual Science Fair dates for 1991 are March 14-15. The fair will be held in the new gym here at GCHS. Students from all over the county have been invited to participate in the event.

Approximately 35 students will travel to St. Paul's College in Lawrenceville to participate in the Math/Science Conference April 23.

The biology classes will begin their spring gardens soon and the weather station located in the Earth Science room is about ready.

Glenda Bradley and Tasha Powell discover that science can be fun as well as educational.

Social Studies

An important objective of the Social Studies Department is sending contributing, participating citizens into the community. To accomplish this goal, students have taken part in voter registration drives, campaigns, and community surveys. The World History Classes have had career-oriented speakers sponsored by the Boy Scout Council. The Government classes have been visited by lawyers, judges, police officers, the city manager, planning commissioner, county supervisor, and game warden. Field trips to the General Assembly, local and federal courts, and Congress are annual events. Social Studies students also wrote letters encouraging a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Mrs. Price delivers a lecture on U.S. Government to her AP Government class.

Kelsey Moore comments on Mrs. Goodwyn's Black History Month display. Also pictured: D. Stephens, S. Fleming.

Mr. Grizzard's AP History class presented "A Dickens of a Christmas." Pictured are C. Barrett, R. Robinson, G. Thomas and E. Davis.

Phys Ed Doubles In '91

The Health/PhysEd department doubled its capacity in 1991 with the addition of the ninth-grade classes. To meet this additional requirement, GCHS welcomed Miss Ruby Daniels as HPE instructor and softball coach. Weight training and basketball (left) continued to be popular with students as the department encouraged health, safety and fitness in its classes.

Part of the new ninth-grade class awaits the tardy bell and the beginning of health class.

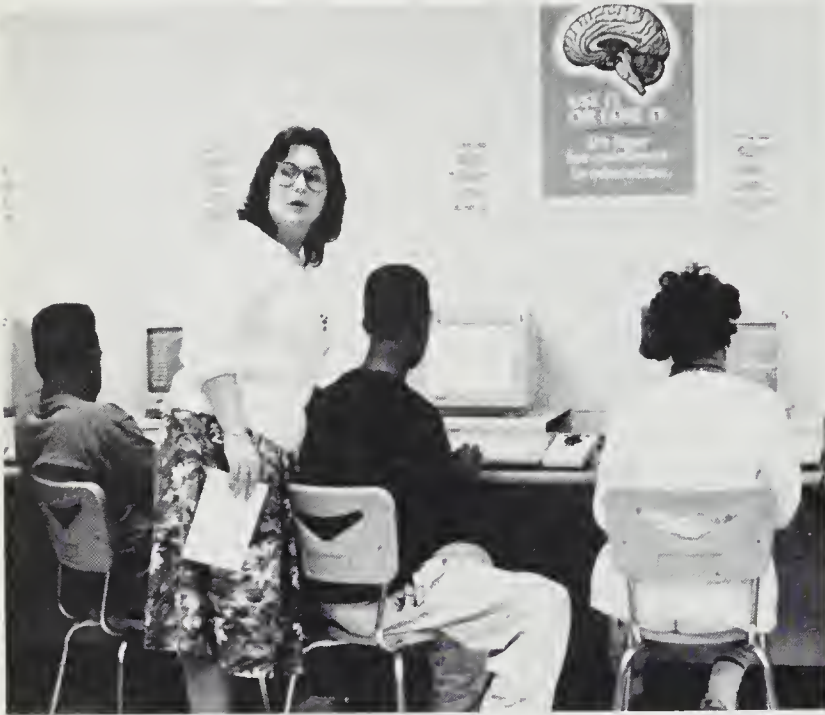

Weight training was popular with many students.

Baseball players clown around as they use the weight facilities for training.

Business Education

Mrs. Newsome supervises the new CCC Lab.

Business Department students and FBLA members Nicole Stephens and Muzette Rogerson took part in the competitions at the FBLA their typing skills.

Mrs. Powell gives her business students some time to work on an assignment before checking their progress.

Parting Shots

Despite the pressures of a seven-period schedule, students still found time just to be themselves and have fun during the school year. For the seniors, this year marks the end of their good times at GCHS but the beginning of new adventures and new friends as they move on to jobs and college. June may bring the end of the 1990-91 episode of the underclassmen's school careers, but September, with its new beginnings and good times will be here before we know it.
